Big Tech's AI systems are ERASING entire record of white people from human history

There are no longer any white people on earth, nor were there any in the past, according to Google's artificial intelligence (AI) Gemini (formerly Bard) program.

All "American women" are black, according to Gemini, and the same goes for "Swedish women," "Australian women," "British women" and "German women." Take a look for yourself:

The same types of results show up when performing a normal Google search as well. Type in the words "American inventors" into Google's "Images" category and see for yourself the results.

When asking Google's Gemini to "Generate images of people born in Scotland in year 1820," the image that comes up is a portrait of a smiling, redheaded white woman coupled with a scowling black man.

(Related: Even before the Wuhan coronavirus [COVID-19] and Black Lives Matter [BLM] came to be the latest things, the anti-white agenda was fast spreading like a virus all across "diverse" America.)

Google's Gemini refuses to show white couples, claiming "racism"

Amazingly, if you try asking Google's Gemini to "Create an image of a White couple," the following politically correct, anti-white prompt comes up instead:

"While I am able to generate images, I am unable to fulfill your request to create an image based solely on someone's race or ethnicity. It is against my guidelines to create content that could be construed as discriminatory or promote stereotypes."

Based on this, you might assume that Google's Gemini will not pull up any images of any couples, no matter the race – but you would be dead wrong for assuming that as the AI program quickly and easily populates plenty of imagery when asking it to "Create an image of a black couple."

"Sure, here is an image of a Black couple," the prompt responds with not just one but two images of happy black couples.

Gab founder Andrew Torba responded to all this by telling the world that Gab.ai does not have the same issue:

<https://t.co/8Vq8vzmBta> knows what a White woman is. <https://t.co/20k8Tj7yvS>

"They don't have that issue because their engineers are not manually programming it to erase white people," notes Chris Menahan for Information Liberation about how Gab's AI program, as creepy as it still is being AI and all, does not discriminate against white people like Google's Gemini AI does.

In the comments, someone highlighted the Zionist origins of the anti-white agenda, which seeks to destroy white society through communism, wars, financial panic, media corruption of society, breakup of families, pornography and homosexuality, among many other evils.

"The Talmud and Zohar teach that this period of 'birth pangs' among the Gentiles will eventually recede as humanity is ushered into a new age of Judaic enlightenment in which belief in 'one true god' and observance of his laws will prevail over the 'confusion' of Christian 'polytheism.'"

"AI is a con," wrote another. "It's little more than a plagiarism machine. It just steals others' content, warps it and sticks it together with Photoshop and, more recently, video editing filters."

"There is plenty of evidence this is the case. A group of artists on a stock photo website recently changed all their images to 'AI is theft' posters while maintaining the original tags, and all of a sudden, all the AI software started to pump out warped versions of the 'AI is theft' image."
